SECRETARY'S INTRODUCTION

As Australia navigates a complex regional and international operating environment, the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade will continue to adapt and respond to effectively deliver outcomes for the Government. Our policy tools, combining diplomatic, development and economic expertise, will be fundamental to protecting Australia's security, strengthening our prosperity and supporting economic recovery.

The department's seven priorities in this Corporate Plan, and three outcomes outlined in the department's 2021–22 Portfolio Budget Statements, provide a roadmap for how we intend to deliver for the Government and for Australia in an uncertain international environment.

New funding for the department provided through the 2021–22 Budget will enable us to do our business better and deliver for Australians, including by: helping business diversify trade and compete fairly in global markets; expanding our advocacy and cooperation with partners for an open, inclusive, and resilient Indo-Pacific; sustaining the Government's diplomatic network; and enhancing our consular capabilities so we can better support Australians overseas.

Our support for Australians overseas will continue to be one of our most important responsibilities. We will deliver essential consular and passport services, information, and advice. We will broaden our reach and extend our capacity to support Australians overseas, particularly those most in need.

We will work with business to support jobs and secure Australia's economic recovery. We will create new market opportunities to support trade diversification and investment flows. We will continue to uphold the rules-based trading system and to work to remove impediments to Australian exports, including by negotiating trade agreements with the United Kingdom (UK) and the European Union (EU).

We will continue to lead the Australian Government's efforts to promote an open, inclusive and resilient Indo-Pacific by advancing our agenda with the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN); the Quad (Australia, India, Japan and the United States); and bilateral partners. We also lead the Pacific Step-up to support economic resilience and recovery. We will prosecute Australia's interests multilaterally to respond to global challenges, help set new standards and rules, and protect and advance human rights.

Through Partnerships for Recovery we will help our international partners – especially in the Pacific and Southeast Asia – to stop the spread of COVID-19 and rebuild regional economies. We will give priority in our development cooperation to health security, stability and economic recovery, and protecting the most vulnerable, especially women and girls. We will support early access to vaccines for partners in the Pacific, Timor-Leste and Southeast Asia. We will contribute to global efforts to address global development challenges, including in public health and climate change.

We will maintain a core focus on service delivery, providing clear advice to government, implementing priorities and initiatives internationally, and supporting Australians overseas. We will modernise our human resources and technology so we can attract, develop and retain the people and capabilities we need, and create a more secure, inclusive and effective organisation. We will upgrade our physical security overseas to ensure we can continue to support and service Australians in a safe environment.

This 2021–22 Corporate Plan explains what the department does and sets out performance measures so we can clearly demonstrate the impact of our work. We will regularly monitor our performance, which will be reported in our annual performance statement, in the 2021–22 Annual Report.

I look forward to working with our portfolio ministers and assistant ministers, their staff, external partners and stakeholders to deliver the strategies outlined in this 2021–22 Corporate Plan.

STATEMENT OF PREPARATION

I, Kathryn Campbell, as the accountable authority of the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, am pleased to present the 2021–22 Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade Corporate Plan.

This covers the period 2021–22 to 2024–25 as required under paragraph 35(1) (b) of the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013. The Corporate Plan is prepared in accordance with the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Rule 2014.

Kathryn Campbell AO, CSC

Secretary

OUR PURPOSE

OUR PURPOSE

The department works to make Australia stronger, safer and more prosperous, to provide timely and responsive consular and passport services, and to ensure a secure Australian Government presence overseas.

OUR OUTCOMES

To achieve this purpose, the department has three key outcomes (set out in the 2021–22 Portfolio Budget Statements):

The advancement of Australia's international strategic, security and economic interests including through bilateral, regional and multilateral engagement on Australian Government foreign, trade and international development policy priorities.

The protection and welfare of Australians abroad and access to secure international travel documentation through timely and responsive travel advice and consular and passport services in Australia and overseas.

A secure Australian Government presence overseas through the provision of security services and information and communications technology infrastructure, and the management of the Commonwealth's overseas property estate.

OUR PRIORITIES

We will pursue these outcomes through seven priorities and key activities that we will deliver over the life of this corporate plan (2021–22 to 2024–25). These priorities align with the 2017 Foreign Policy White Paper.

Promote a stable and prosperous Indo-Pacific.

Pursue our economic, trade and investment opportunities.

Keep Australia and Australians safe and secure.

Deliver an effective and responsive development program.

Advance global cooperation.

Support Australians overseas.

Provide a secure and effective overseas presence.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS AND TRADE PORTFOLIO

The Foreign Affairs and Trade portfolio consists of the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade (DFAT), the Australian Trade and Investment Commission (Austrade), the Australian Secret Intelligence Service (ASIS), the Australian Centre for International Agricultural Research (ACIAR), Tourism Australia and Export Finance Australia.

The department and its portfolio agency partners work with the broader Australian Public Service to promote a stable and prosperous regional and global environment by leveraging Australia's engagement with bilateral and regional partners and multilateral institutions.

OUR KEY PARTNERS AND STAKEHOLDERS

We work with a wide range of stakeholders in Australia, in our region and globally to deliver the Government's agenda.

We work closely with our ministers, portfolio partners, colleagues across Commonwealth, state and territory governments at all levels, businesses, universities, scientific agencies, non-government organisations and the wider Australian community to promote and protect Australia's interests internationally and contribute to economic growth and global stability.

Together with our key partners and stakeholders, we are working to shape a regional order that benefits all countries regardless of their size or geography: an open and inclusive region of sovereign and resilient states that cooperate within a framework of agreed rules and norms. Our international stakeholders include our trade partners, Pacific family and Timor-Leste, our bilateral partners in Southeast Asia, like-minded partners, Indo-Pacific regional organisations and international organisations.

We are helping to strengthen global responses to COVID-19, which is crucial to Australia's own recovery, with our development efforts concentrated in the Indo-Pacific. Through our Partnerships for Recovery strategy, we are delivering programs to our neighbours, prioritising health security, stability and economic recovery. We will continue to work closely with regional and global institutions to reinforce the rules and norms that support stability and prosperity, and enable the cooperation needed to tackle COVID-19 and other global challenges, including climate change.

In an uncertain world, the strength and diversity of Australia's partnerships are critical. The department will continue to invest in these relationships in Australia and globally through Australia's diplomatic network.

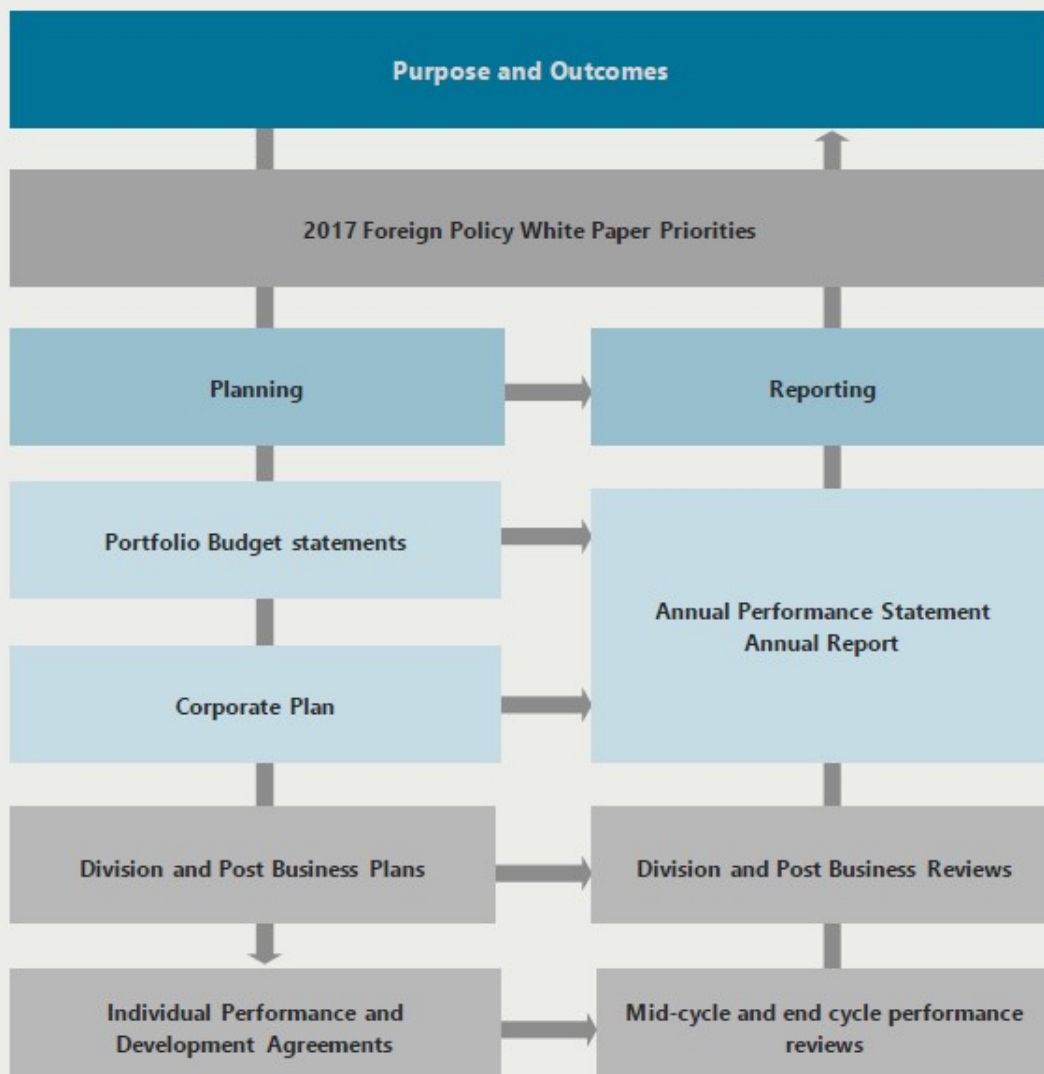

PLANNING AND PERFORMANCE

ROLE OF THE CORPORATE PLAN

The department's 2021–22 Corporate Plan sets out the department's purpose, outcomes and priorities. It outlines the measures through which we will assess our performance each year. It reflects, and operationalises, the comprehensive framework to advance Australia's security and prosperity outlined in the 2017 Foreign Policy White Paper.

The corporate plan complements the Foreign Affairs and Trade 2021–22 Portfolio Budget Statements (PBS) for the foreign affairs and trade portfolio. Through the PBS, the Australian Government appropriates public funds to the department to achieve our purpose.

There is a clear line of sight between our PBS, corporate plan and annual performance statement which demonstrates how the department has applied public resources effectively and efficiently to make Australia stronger, safer and more prosperous. The corporate plan sets the parameters for the department's annual business planning cycle and individual performance and development agreements ensuring clarity of purpose from the whole-of-enterprise to the individual level.

MEASURING OUR PERFORMANCE

The department is progressively improving its performance framework to better demonstrate how we plan, evaluate, report and reset activities we deliver for Australia and Australians. Our reforms aim to enhance the department's ability to provide high-quality, meaningful information on our performance, which is an important part of our accountability to the Australian Government, Parliament and the public.

In June and July 2021, the department conducted an in-depth review of the performance measures and targets presented in the PBS. The 2021–22 Corporate Plan reflects improvements to ensure the department's performance information is relevant, reliable and complete, including having clearer performance measures, delivery targets and integrating robust methodologies.

The department will continue to review and improve its performance framework and to cultivate a positive performance management culture.

METHODOLOGY

The department assesses its performance on a regular basis. We have internal and external processes for assessment and contestability, and utilise several data sources for performance assessment. We draw on reliable and verifiable information to provide an unbiased basis for measuring our performance.

We collect a wide range of data through internally managed data systems that focus on activity management and contracting; assess the quality and outcomes of Australian aid and humanitarian programs; track Australian passport and consular services; and assess management of Australian infrastructure overseas.

We regularly conduct quality assurance processes that generate significant data to support analysis of our performance. This includes internally focused assessment to track progress of our work across our divisions, 113 overseas posts and our state and territory offices. It also includes external assessments such as annual surveys assessing satisfaction of key stakeholders.

We make extensive use of relevant external data to help us verify whether we have met our objectives. We use information produced by global institutions relevant to Australia's interests, such as externally produced reports on outcomes achieved, reported progress against relevant international conventions and other international agreements. External data provides evidence of our success in achieving outcomes through multilateral engagement and delivering outcomes vital for Australia's interest.

DELIVERY AND PERFORMANCE

As part of our reform agenda and in line with Department of Finance guidance, we have introduced methodologies and targets across the department's performance measures, where practicable. We will continue to develop our targets, performance measures and key activities as part of the department's internal business planning processes.

The following sections set out the priorities that contribute to the department's purpose, the key activities required to deliver the priorities, and the performance measures that we will report against in the 2021–22 Annual Report.

We have reflected each priority against its PBS outcome and our delivery strategies, which describe the key activities we will undertake for each PBS program.

OUR PRIORITIES AND KEY ACTIVITIES

OUTCOME 1 – PRIORITY 1: PROMOTE A STABLE AND PROSPEROUS INDO-PACIFIC

OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

The Australian Government's foreign policy remains centred on an open, inclusive and resilient Indo-Pacific – our home and the most critical part of the world for our interests. The Indo-Pacific includes our key strategic partners, our Pacific, Indian Ocean and Southeast Asian neighbours, our major trading partners and our most consequential and complex bilateral relationships. The COVID-19 pandemic has heightened the strategic context and economic fragility in the region.

The department is working to shape a regional order that benefits all countries, regardless of their size or power: an Indo-Pacific of sovereign and resilient states that cooperate within a framework of agreed rules and norms. Specifically, we will work with partners to:

- support the region's health response to COVID-19 and its economic recovery
- promote rules and norms that underpin the region's security and prosperity
- advance open and resilient markets to facilitate the free flow of trade, capital and ideas.

We will continue to strengthen our alliance with the United States and to pursue deeper cooperation with India and Japan in responding to regional challenges. We will continue to reinforce our ties with other key partners including Indonesia, the Republic of Korea, Malaysia, Singapore, Vietnam and partners in the Pacific, while seeking a mutually beneficial relationship with China and coordinating our whole-of-government China policy consistent with our national interests.

We are increasing engagement with Southeast Asia, including supporting the region's health security and economic recovery. We are fostering collaboration bilaterally, in mini-lateral groups and through forums such as the East Asia Summit (EAS) and other regional architecture led by ASEAN. A strong and resilient ASEAN that plays a central role in the affairs of the region is vital to achieving a secure, peaceful, prosperous and open Indo-Pacific.

We have been at the forefront of supporting the Pacific's response to COVID-19. We will build efforts through the Pacific Step-up to help enhance economic recovery, regional security and re-establish connectivity so our deep personal ties can flourish. We will support high-quality infrastructure, provide budget support and create pathways to employment in Australia and across our region through our labour mobility, education and skills initiative. We will continue to strengthen resilience to climate change and disasters and support sustainable growth. Our engagement with Pacific communities will be underpinned by protecting the most vulnerable, promoting disability inclusion and advancing gender equality.

OUTCOME 1 – PRIORITY 2: PURSUE OUR ECONOMIC, TRADE AND INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES

OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

The international trading environment has become increasingly complex. Keeping the global economy open and businesses trading is crucial for Australia's economic recovery and ongoing prosperity. With one in five Australian jobs trade-related prior to the pandemic, the department is focused on upholding the rules-based trading system and securing new market opportunities for Australian businesses.

The World Trade Organization (WTO) remains at the heart of the rules-based trading system that has underpinned Australia's prosperity over the past thirty years. The department is leading efforts to reform the WTO to ensure it continues to deliver for Australia and our region. We are using the WTO dispute settlement system to protect Australia's interests, as well as regional forums such as the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC), to promote practical economic collaboration.

We are pursuing a wide-ranging trade diversification agenda, including by negotiating new free trade agreements (FTAs) with the UK and EU, and expanding the membership of the Comprehensive and Progressive Agreement for Trans-Pacific Partnership (CPTPP). Australia's FTA network currently covers around 70 per cent of Australia's total two-way trade, up from 26 per cent in 2013. We are supporting Australian businesses at home and around the world by addressing non-trade barriers and creating a more level playing field for Australian exporters. We are opening up new opportunities in growth areas such as digital trade and deepening our economic relationships with key partners including Indonesia, Vietnam and India.

Together with our partner agencies, state and territory governments and Australian businesses, we are working to ensure that the Australian economy has a competitive edge around the world and remains attractive to overseas investment.

OUTCOME 1 – PRIORITY 3: KEEP AUSTRALIA AND AUSTRALIANS SAFE AND SECURE

OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

The rise of new and evolving hybrid security challenges in the Indo-Pacific such as disinformation campaigns, foreign interference, malicious cyber activity and economic coercion threaten Australia's security, our freedom and our values, and the stability of our region. Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMD) continue to pose a threat to regional and global stability. New proliferation challenges have arisen because of emerging technologies with WMD and the application of conventional weapons.

To keep Australians safe and secure, the department will work with partners to tackle both these new and more traditional security threats and build support for strong international rules and norms that protect Australian interests. We will continue to ensure the strength and vitality of our security alliance with the United States and enhance our diplomatic engagement on a broad range of security issues, including:

- countering disinformation and foreign interference that is harmful to Australia's strategic and economic interests
- preventing and countering the proliferation and use of nuclear, chemical and biological weapons
- securing stronger counter-terrorism and counter violent extremism cooperation
- reducing the threat of people smuggling and incidences of human trafficking and other forms of modern slavery in the Indo-Pacific
- strengthening international rules and norms that apply to space, and
- promoting a safe, secure and prosperous Australia, Indo-Pacific and world enabled by cyberspace and critical technology.

The department also works with agencies to guard against attempts by foreign governments and their proxies to exert inappropriate influence on Australia, and to undermine our sovereign institutions and decision-making.

OUTCOME 1 – PRIORITY 4: DELIVER AN EFFECTIVE AND RESPONSIVE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

Australia's development program supports our interests by investing in the stability and prosperity of our region and the world. In standing with our neighbours amidst COVID-19, we recognise that how they respond to the crisis affects Australia – until our region is safe, secure, prosperous and healthy, neither are we.

COVID-19 is reversing hard-won development gains, globally and in our region. Lives and livelihoods continue to be lost to the pandemic. Poverty and inequality have worsened, with women and girls disproportionately affected. A number of Indo-Pacific economies will likely contract for a second year, including in the Pacific. Vaccine supply and distribution is a core challenge. Reversing the damage to communities will likely take years.

Through Partnerships for Recovery – Australia's COVID-19 development response – we are delivering programs to mitigate pandemic impacts on our neighbours, prioritising health security, stability and economic recovery. We are focused on supporting women and girls in particular, and enhancing their safety, health and wellbeing. Our energy, attention and resources are concentrated in our Indo-Pacific region. In recognition of the scale of the pandemic's impact, the department will also deliver temporary and targeted measures that supplement the Official Development Assistance (ODA) budget, valued at $1 billion over the forward years to 2023–24. We are supporting our Pacific family and Southeast Asian partners to access and to safely and effectively roll out COVID-19 vaccines. We are investing in the future of our region through high-quality infrastructure projects that will facilitate sustainable economic growth and assist long-term recovery efforts.

In line with the Prime Minister's commitment to increase climate financing assistance to $1.5 billion by 2025, Australia will accelerate efforts to address the impacts of climate change in our region through the development program and investments in sustainable infrastructure projects. In addition, the department will continue to lead Australia's humanitarian efforts to help prepare for – and respond to – disasters, particularly in the Indo-Pacific.

Through our development partnerships with multilateral institutions and multilateral development banks, we are supporting effective global responses to the pandemic, while also sharpening the collective focus on specific challenges in the Indo-Pacific.

We are achieving results in an immensely challenging environment. Limits on the movement of people and goods, border restrictions and reduced air traffic have had an impact on implementation of programs across the board. Addressing urgent needs and priorities requires us to design and deliver new, complex measures (including vaccines) at speed.

The department's development program performance system has three central elements: a three-tiered framework for reporting on the context and results of Australia's development program; annual progress reports on country and regional COVID-19 development response plans; and periodic assessment of global programs and multilateral organisations. The department reports on development program effectiveness in our annual report.

* Consistent with Partnerships for Recovery, advice from the Foreign Minister's office and recommendation 1 of the Joint Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs, Defence and Trade (JSCFADT) inquiry into the development program, the title of priority 4 has been amended from the previous 'Deliver an effective and responsive development assistance program'.

OUTCOME 1 – PRIORITY 5: ADVANCE GLOBAL COOPERATION

OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

The COVID-19 crisis has demonstrated that, more than ever, we need strong and effective multilateral institutions, grounded in principles of openness and transparency. Following the completion of Australia's multilateral audit in 2020, the department is focused on ensuring the multilateral system is delivering for Australia – and all countries – as we tackle unprecedented global challenges. This includes continuing to advocate for reform where required, to ensure multilateral organisations are fit for purpose and accountable to member states.

The department will continue working to protect the global rules, norms, standards and values that underpin Australia's security and prosperity, in collaboration with like-minded and regional partners. We will contribute actively to international collaboration to deal with important global challenges, including pandemic control and on climate change. We will continue to protect human rights and defend their universality in the UN Human Rights Council and other multilateral forums. We will also continue to promote fundamental freedoms, gender equality and social inclusion, including for people with disabilities and indigenous persons, and advocate for global abolition of the death penalty.

We will seek to reinforce leadership of multilateral institutions by supporting meritorious individuals with a commitment to good governance and transparency. We will continue promoting our unprecedented number of Australian candidacies, which provide Australia with positions of influence from which to promote and protect the rules, norms, standards and values that support our national interests and those of our Indo-Pacific region.

We are increasing engagement in international standard-setting bodies to promote and protect standards that support a level playing field and an open, interoperable global economy. In particular, we will work to ensure new standards for emerging technologies foster innovation, transparency, diverse markets and security by design, and are consistent with international law and protect human rights.

In the challenging COVID-19 environment, we will continue to meet our obligations under the Vienna Conventions on Diplomatic and Consular Relations, including by facilitating the effective functioning of foreign missions represented in Australia.

OUTCOME 2 – PRIORITY 6: SUPPORT AUSTRALIANS OVERSEAS

OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

Support for Australians overseas is an essential part of the department's mission. The department will continue to prepare for and lead the Australian Government's response to overseas crises.

The COVID-19 pandemic – already driving the biggest consular operation of our history – will continue to cause hardship for Australian citizens overseas. Since the Australian border was closed in March 2020, more than 600,000 Australians have arrived in Australia (as at 30 June 2021). We will continue to help Australians wishing to return home, prioritising the most vulnerable and providing appropriate consular services focused on those most in need.

The department's Global Watch Office provides a 24/7 capability to monitor and initiate responses to international events that affect Australian interests. We help Australians overseas, including through the Smartraveller website and the provision of timely and accurate travel advice and assistance during international crises and emergencies. We will cooperate with private sector and international partners – as well as across the Australian Government – to broaden our reach and extend our capacity to advise and assist Australians overseas.

Our work to continue to upgrade systems and technology for the consular network and other additional support will help us manage high consular workloads, including those associated with the COVID-19 pandemic. This will modernise Australia's consular capability and ensure it remains able to respond to overseas emergencies and support Australians overseas.

The Australian Passport Office will continue to deliver a world class passport service. We will also continue to tailor our service to local impacts of the pandemic, where restrictions prevent Australians from applying for passports in person (both in Australia and overseas).

COVID-19 has reduced the number of passport applications to its lowest level in a quarter century. To help ensure Australians are 'travel ready' when borders begin to reopen, we are sending reminder messages to Australians where their passports have recently expired or are about to expire. To further support future international travel the department is also working with Services Australia to develop a high-security vaccination certificate that draws on ePassport technology.

Our work to enhance the customer experience and further digitalise our service will continue over 2021–22 helping us to be increasingly responsive and agile in a complex COVID-19 environment.

OUR CAPABILITIES

COVID-19 continues to shape our world. It has had a profound impact on the department's core business, demanding flexibility across our many responsibilities. Our people, including in our global network of 113 overseas posts across six continents, have responded with agility and resilience to complex challenges in unprecedented circumstances. We continue to play a vital role providing support to Australians and delivering on the Government's agenda.

The department continues to be at the forefront of Australia's response to COVID-19. We have pivoted our development program, we are supporting Australia's economic recovery through diversified trade and investment, and delivering the most complex consular operation in Australia's history. Our work to defend and prosecute Australia's interests during the pandemic has highlighted our strengths as an organisation. It is driving innovation and adaptability. We are committed to holding on to the best of this, including our increased agility, rapid uptake of technology, use of data to inform decision-making, remote and flexible work to enhance productivity and a sharpened clarity of purpose.

We are implementing an ambitious program of organisational reform across people management, IT, security, service delivery and our overseas operations to ensure our organisation can be even more effective as we transition to support recovery. We are streamlining our systems while delivering efficient and high-quality services to Australians.

PEOPLE

We are the eyes, ears and voice of Australia overseas. Our people and the global network we lead on behalf of Government are our core assets. We are investing in both to ensure we can stand firm in the face of growing challenges to Australia's national interests.

Our job is to be where it matters, when it matters – both domestically and overseas. Our human resources modernisation program will help ensure we can identify the capability needs of different teams and quickly mobilise people with the right skills at the right time, place and cost.

We are invigorating our leadership practice and harnessing opportunity and lessons from the challenges as a result of COVID-19 – further strengthening our capacity to deliver on Australia's strategic priorities. Through our Leadership@DFAT framework, we are embedding a culture of commitment, clarity and care for our people. Inclusive, accountable leadership is the foundation on which we will achieve better results and maximise Australia's strategic impact and global influence.

We are investing in our capacity – and the capacity of other government departments working internationally – to prosecute Australian priorities and interests overseas. The department's Diplomatic Academy leads our efforts to train Australian officials, both in the department and across the Australian Public Service (APS). We are seeking out, and working to manage, existing and new talent and promote innovative workforce practices, and building surge capacity into our future workforce to support the needs of the department in times of crises and shifting priorities, and as part of an integrated APS enterprise.

DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION

At the heart of everything we do is our people. We are committed to a diplomatic service that represents Australia in all of its diversity. It is our diversity of backgrounds, skills and experience that enables us to represent Australia to the world and to enhance our influence internationally.

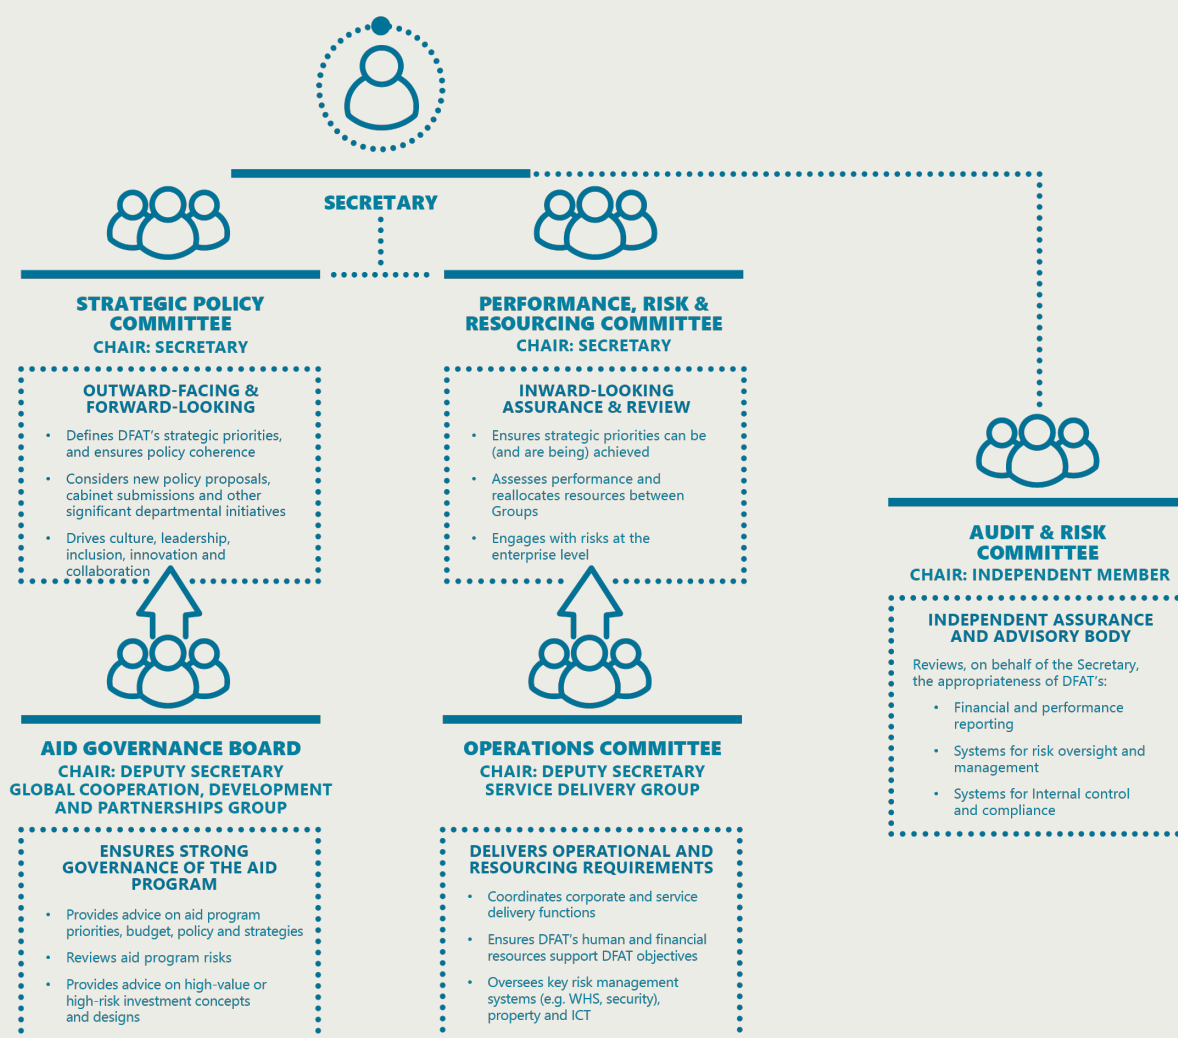

Our Diversity and Inclusion Framework and refreshed Women in Leadership Strategy guide our efforts to recruit and retain the best of Australia: diverse, high-performing and outward-looking. We continue to focus our efforts on fostering an inclusive, respectful and safe workplace environment where all staff can bring their whole selves to work and perform at their best.

SYSTEMS

Ongoing reforms are supporting a reliable, secure and sustainable ICT network to flex and respond to rapidly changing and uncertain operating circumstances. ICT systems are critical enablers in our disrupted, COVID-affected world. We are making greater use of virtual tools and technology to work smarter and manage the challenges of COVID-19. The department leads the provision of international ICT services and infrastructure, providing digital capability and security for 41 domestic and overseas partner agencies. We are employing new technologies to improve our digital capability, ICT and data fluency and working with partner agencies and industry to ensure our systems are fit-for-purpose and secure.

GOVERNANCE

Our governance arrangements continue to support delivery of strategic priorities, ensure organisational fitness, and increase accountability. These proved critical as the foundation for real-time, accountable decision-making and assurance during our COVID-19 response and will continue to guide our transition to support recovery.

MANAGING OUR RISKS

The department's challenging operating environment means success depends on our ability to engage with risk, capitalise on opportunities and encourage innovative practices. COVID-19 has accelerated the need for this, not only for managing the continued risks posed by the pandemic, but also the broader political, economic and operational uncertainty it has created. Effective risk management ensures that the department is resilient and agile in the face of this uncertainty and can deliver for Australia and Australians.

MAINTAINING A ROBUST RISK FRAMEWORK

The department's Risk Management Guide sets out our framework for managing risk in line with the expectations of the Commonwealth Risk Management Policy. The guide sets out responsibilities for managing risk and our processes for risk assessment, including defining the department's appetite for risk. It also empowers areas of the department to develop policies, processes and reporting mechanisms for specialist areas of risk such as work health and safety, security, fraud, the protection of people in vulnerable situations, as well as risk management for the development program.

The framework is coordinated by the department's Chief Performance and Risk Officer and a dedicated enterprise risk team, which also provides outreach and support across the department. The Performance, Risk and Resourcing Committee oversees operation of the department's risk framework and receives reports on the management of enterprise risks. Key operational risks are monitored and reported to the Operations Committee, and risks in the development program are monitored and reported to the Aid Governance Board. The Audit and Risk Committee delivers independent assurance to the Secretary and ensures the department's approach is appropriate and fit-for-purpose, including by endorsing amendments to the Risk Management Guide.

The department continually reviews its risk framework to ensure it accurately reflects roles and responsibilities and expresses risk appetite in a way that enables risk management to support our priorities. Capturing the lessons learned from our ongoing response to the COVID-19 pandemic and how to address changes in our international and domestic contexts is a key component of this review work.

MANAGING OUR ENTERPRISE RISKS

The department's enterprise risks are those that have a systemic impact on our strategic priorities set out in this plan or our capacity to deliver them. These risks are set out in the department's Enterprise Risk Register. The Performance, Risk and Resourcing Committee, chaired by the Secretary, regularly reviews the enterprise risks and directs action to manage them.

Enterprise risks can be either 'strategic' (risks to the achievement of specific foreign policy, trade, investment and/or international development priorities) or 'operational' (risks that affect how the department delivers our priorities and maintain business operations).

The department is undertaking a review of the strategic risks in the enterprise risk register, addressing COVID-19's impact on our strategic context. The table below sets out the operational risks in the Enterprise Risk Register and the mechanisms we are using to manage them.

Risk	Management Mechanisms
Development Program – Effective implementation of the international development program is impacted by COVID-19. We are unable to deliver on expected development objectives.	Use flexible program designs and funding mechanisms, to adapt to changing circumstances, needs and government priorities. Timely deployment of resources and continued strengthening of our international development capability. Adequate financial and agreement management mechanisms, and monitoring of safeguard and diversion risks.
Work Health and Safety (WHS) – Our management of work health and safety does not enable the department to provide a healthy and safe workplace.	Policies and processes support the management of physical and mental health risks. Assessment and assurance of WHS risk and controls across the department, with targeted WHS programs to remedy trending WHS risks. Increased training and assurance of individual accountabilities for WHS across the department. Enhance WHS issue reporting and investigation capabilities.
Personnel and physical security – Our management of personnel and physical security is insufficient for the threat environment.	Clearly define, continuously monitor and review security policies and procedures. Assess security risks and assure the effectiveness of controls across the network to support appropriate risk mitigation. Deliver security communications, training and services to build a robust security culture. Invest to enhance key security infrastructure.
Staffing – Our staffing profile, in terms of numbers and skills, is not capable of responding to our objectives.	Enhance workforce planning and recruitment activities to hire the desired people capability. Enhance performance management processes to develop individual people capability. Increase investment in staff welfare and support to sustain high-tempo operations.
ICT Sustainability – ICT capability is unable to be enhanced or sustained, resulting in service failure, diminution in systems capacity and client dissatisfaction.	Implement 3 year ICT Strategy and ICT Investment plan to ensure continued and sustainable implementation of the ICT Transformation Program. Enhance ICT workforce capability. Increase governance and transparency through the implementation of a new ICT Program board.
Information Security – Government and/or personal information is compromised.	Clearly define, continuously monitor and review security policies and procedures. Increase investment in cyber risk management capability. Target ICT maintenance to secure operations. Deliver security communications, training and services to build a robust security culture. Enhance privacy protections to protect private information managed by the department.
Asset Management – Effective management of our property portfolio is unable to be sustained compromising the achievement of government objectives and the safety and security of staff.	Maintain oversight of the property portfolio to ensure the safety and security of staff and information, alignment with DFAT and partner agency business requirements. Sustain investment in the property portfolio through the Overseas Property Special Account and departmental budget.
Passports – We are unable to deliver passport services in line with government and public expectations.	Close monitoring of operational performance and data analytics to monitor and respond to demand. Continuous improvement of systems, technology and processes to meet customer needs. Flexible workforce model and relationships with suppliers to respond to a surge in demand. Comprehensive surge plan in place to manage spikes in demand and variations in our forecasted modelling.
Financial Management – DFAT fails to ensure proper use of resources for achieving the purposes of the entity, and maintaining financial sustainability.	Careful financial planning, prioritisation, and management to achieve priority outcomes for government. Ensuring that our financial management and procurement processes readily support compliance with government regulations, and minimise the risk of fraud, misuse, and waste. An ongoing program of financial training and capability uplift for DFAT Officers.
Consular – We are unable to deliver consular services (including responding to international crises) in line with government and public expectations.	Maintain capability to deliver DFAT's obligations under the Consular Services Charter and the Australian Government Crisis Management Framework. Increased resources and modernisation of Australia's consular capability. Increased investment in Smartraveller and other communications platforms. Collaboration with partner agencies, and likeminded nations, and industry partners to support effective crisis management responses.

BUILDING A STRONG RISK CULTURE AND CAPABILITY

The department responds to uncertainty in its operating environment by building risk management capability. Staff are supported to develop the skills needed to identify, understand and manage risks.

To support a positive risk culture, the department has identified eight positive risk culture behaviours, to assist staff to understand how they can confidently and positively engage with risk through the course of their work.

POSITIVE RISK CULTURE BEHAVIOURS

UNDERSTAND YOUR OBJECTIVES

Identify your objectives to understand what may prevent you from achieving them.

ENGAGE WITH RISK

Be open to accepting risks when justified by the potential benefits.

MAKE INFORMED DECISIONS

Use information about risks to inform your decision-making. Understanding your key risks will help you to allocate resources effectively.

COMMUNICATE EFFECTIVELY

Have regular discussions so that you understand DFAT's risk appetite and your role in managing risks.

DOCUMENT YOUR WORK

Record decisions on risk using common and consistent language to facilitate transparency and accountability.

SHARE LESSONS LEARNT

Share best practice, learn from mistakes and mark successes to reinforce appropriate risk taking and innovation.

MAINTAIN RISK CAPABILITY

Ensure you have the right training, tools and processes to do risk management well.

REWARD GOOD RISK MANAGEMENT

Recognise and reward good risk management.

COLLABORATING ON SHARED RISKS

Shared risks extend across multiple parties and require shared oversight and management. Because of the nature of the department's operating context and model, we must manage a number of shared risks with other Australian Government entities, bilateral partner governments, multilateral organisations, the private sector and non-government organisations.

Managing shared risks requires a clear and agreed understanding of the accountabilities and obligations of the department and other parties. We do this through formal agreements, including memoranda of understanding, service level agreements, contracts and bilateral partnership agreements. The department provides assurance through monitoring and reporting mechanisms of actions taken by all parties.
