The GHF was emblematic of 'peace through strength in humanitarian action'. He said that 'when aid groups shut down at the first sign of danger, as the UN had, GHF delivered'. Unlike the UN, the GHF was not obsessed with procedures. It didn't let 'bureaucratic red tape or fear of failure stop them trying'. GHF had been built 'in the image of American resolve' but was being undermined by a 'relentless disinformation campaign by establishment media'. It had 'trucks, food and resolve' and had just delivered 100 million meals that 'Hamas couldn't steal'.

4. Moore said 12 GHF local aid workers had been killed by Hamas in recent days s 33(a)(iii), s 47E(d)
