YEMEN SANCTIONS REGIME

Why are sanctions imposed?

The United Nations Security Council (UNSC) imposes a limited arms embargo and other sanctions measures in relation to Yemen in response to Yemen's ongoing political, security, economic and humanitarian challenges. Australia implements the UNSC sanctions concerning Yemen by incorporating them into Australian law.

What is prohibited by the Yemen sanctions regime?

The Yemen sanctions regime imposes the following sanctions measures:

Measure	UNSC	Autonomous
restrictions on providing assets to designated persons or entities	✓
restrictions on dealing with the assets of designated persons or entities	✓
travel bans on designated persons	✓
restrictions on supplying arms or related materiel, and related services, to designated persons and entities	✓

Restrictions on providing assets to designated persons or entities

The UNSC and its Yemen Sanctions Committee have designated five persons (no entities) for the purposes of the Yemen sanctions regime. It is prohibited to directly or indirectly make an asset available to (or for the benefit of) a designated person or entity.

Restrictions on dealing with the assets of designated persons or entities (requirement to freeze assets)

It is prohibited to use or deal with an asset, or allow or facilitate another person to use or deal with an asset, which is owned or controlled by a designated person or entity (the assets are 'frozen' and cannot be used or dealt with).

An 'asset' includes an asset or property of any kind, whether tangible or intangible, movable or immovable. The Consolidated List available on DFAT's website includes the names of all designated persons and entities.

Travel bans

All persons designated for the Yemen sanctions regime are prohibited from transiting through or entering Australia.

Restrictions on supplying arms and related materiel, and related services, to designated persons or entities

The Yemen sanctions regime imposes a limited arms embargo. The following actions are prohibited in relation to a designated person or entity (or a person acting on their behalf or at their direction in Yemen):

- to directly or indirectly supply, sell or transfer arms or related matériel
- to provide technical assistance, training, financial or other assistance which relates to:
 - a military activity, or
 - the provision, maintenance or use of arms or related matériel, including providing armed mercenary personnel (whether or not originating in Australia).

Arms or related matériel includes, but is not limited to, weapons, ammunition, military vehicles and equipment, and spare parts and accessories for any of those things. It also includes paramilitary equipment. While each case will be considered individually, goods on the Defence and Strategic Goods List are likely to be considered arms or related matériel. Depending on the context, end-user and end-use, other goods may also be considered arms or related matériel.

Who must comply with sanctions?

Australian sanctions laws apply to activities in Australia and to activities undertaken overseas by Australian citizens and Australian-registered bodies corporate.

In some circumstances, it may be possible to obtain a permit from the Minister for Foreign Affairs to engage in an activity that would otherwise be prohibited by a sanctions measure. Information on planning an activity and submitting an application for a sanctions permit is available on the DFAT website. Information on planning an activity and submitting an application for a sanctions permit is available on the DFAT website.

It is a serious criminal offence to contravene a sanctions measure (or a condition of a sanctions permit). The penalties include up to ten years in prison and substantial fines.
