

Good afternoon,

We are writing to express our support in the consideration of the Singapore-Australia Green Economy Agreement.

We are an environmental technologies startup based in Melbourne that is developing technologies in the wastewater space with our indirect dryer and gasification technology and also in the plastic waste space with the development of our modular and containerised Advanced Recycling units.

Singapore is of significant interest for us as our modular and containerised design suit the limited land availability in Singapore and our full ecosystem solution for plastic works well in Singapore due to their numerous petrochemical companies and plastic manufacturers that can take part in this full ecosystem approach.

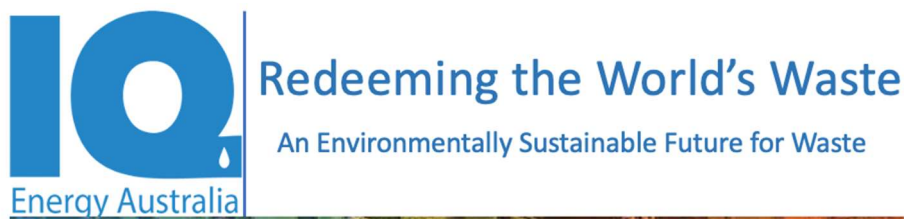

Singapore will increasingly play a vital role in the region due to its location for showcasing Envirotech solutions to the rest of Southeast/South Asia and collaboration can allow Australian technologies to be at the forefront on this shift to a Circular Economy. Singapore utilises a sandbox concept for technology trials and research which encourages innovation which can also be a good opportunity for Australia to look at technologies that are available that come out of the region. This concept could allow emerging Australian technologies an opportunity to bridge the gap between research and commercialisation which is a struggle for many start ups.

We have been actively meeting with many stakeholders in Singapore with the aim of longterm partnerships and hope to see our units be deployed in Singapore once we have developed a little more. Here is a video that we recently created with the assistance of The Incubation Network, where we participated in a virtual accelerator program, 2021 Global Innovation Challenge: Future of Flexibles which was based in Singapore and we aim to continue working with them.

Thank you for taking the time to read our submission and we hope to see a positive relationship develop between our country and Singapore.

Kind regards,

Nick Foster
